

Physicians Portal

Provincial Medical Society

A Provincial Medical Society wanted to increase wellness and patient access to physicians through a sophisticated healthcare portal. The portal would offer citizens a new world of healthcare possibilities.

A complete turnkey solution was developed to provide a wide range of services to both public and professional users. The public can use the site to locate information on diseases; read up on health-related issues and events; link to other electronic sources of healthcare information; and access the site's Media Room. Doctors, meanwhile, can exchange symptom and disease-related information via virtual bulletin boards; access an Electronic Bookshelf containing hundreds of medical publications; and take Continuing Medical Education (CME) courses through a link to a local University. The site further provides the doctors with the ability to view their billing records and access to other administrative tools.

Created and hosted by xwave, the portal has been well-received by doctors and citizens alike, and was even featured on CNN, CTV and WebMD.
